Fall 2018

Message from the Chair

 APRIL RAVARRA, FCIP, CRM
CHAPTER CHAIR

This past June marked my first year as Chapter Chair for the Hamilton/Niagara Chapter and what an amazing year it was! I am honoured to be part of an energetic team of individuals who believe in the learning process. At our Chapter AGM, we welcomed our newest members, Miranda Hirte from Pearson Dunn Insurance and Kelly Hopkins from RSA, as understudies to our dynamic team. We said farewell and thank you to Kelly Lawrence from Portage Mutual. Kelly has served on numerous committees over the years and her enthusiasm and creative mind will be missed. We also said 'see you soon' to Council Member Jenna Leigh who will be taking a leave due to the arrival of her beautiful daughter.

Our Chapter continues to offer our members a variety of opportunities to complete professional courses and further your education and knowledge through our various programs. We are pleased to make learning easy and accessible to all insurance professionals through in-class sessions, web-based courses, distance learning or weekend warrior. We welcome all comments, questions and suggestions to make certain we remain relevant and current in our rapidly changing marketplace.

On the social front, join us on August 29 as we hold our 14th Annual Beach Volleyball tournament. I wish to challenge to all industry professionals to come out, play and show off your skills.

With autumn comes the promise of new learning, enhanced development and growing relationships in this great profession and industry. I hope you consider taking advantage of the many offerings available to you through the Hamilton/Niagara Chapter. We are always looking for volunteers. Contact the Chapter to offer your assistance.

Sincerely,

April Ravarra, FCIP, CRM

Meet a CIP Instructor

KELLY HOPKINS, B.COMM, CRM, CIP

Kelly Hopkins was born and raised in St. Catharines, Ontario. He attended the University of Guelph, obtaining his Honours, Bachelor of Commerce with a specialization in Human Resource Management. Subsequently, he completed a postgraduate certificate in Financial Planning at George Brown College. Kelly also holds his CIP and CRM designations.

Kelly began his career in insurance at a brokerage doing data entry. Shortly after, he joined RSA Canada in Calgary as a personal lines underwriter. He was then promoted to regional sales manager for the Prairies Region, facilitating the broker distribution and relationships within Alberta, Manitoba and the Territories. In 2016, Kelly relocated back to Ontario as a regional sales manager with RSA for Southwestern Ontario.

As well as teaching a variety of courses at the Insurance Institute, he is also a part-time professor at Humber College in their postgraduate Insurance Management program.

1. How did you get started in the insurance industry?

I am a third-generation insurance professional. My Grandfather, Tait Hopkins Sr., owned an adjusting firm in Port Colborne; my Father, Doug Hopkins Sr., has worked in various leadership roles in Claims; my Uncle Tait Hopkins is an Insurance Broker; and my older brother, Doug Hopkins owns the WINMAR St. Catharines/Niagara Franchise. Insurance is in the blood.

2. How has the insurance industry changed throughout your time in it?

It seems as though the industry is moving at a much quicker pace than ever before. Every insurer and broker is increasing their investment and focus on digital initiatives, while also looking to operate in a more efficient and leaner manner. As an industry, we just need to make sure we don't lose sight of personal relationships. This is the foundation of the insurance industry and is crucial in our personal and professional successes.

3. How has your designation benefited you professionally?

The CIP designation has provided substantial benefit to me, including the ability to accelerate my career development at RSA Canada. The CIP has paid dividends in opening doors to become a professor at Humber College. This would not have been possible without my designation. I am now excited to be giving back and teaching at the Insurance Institute.

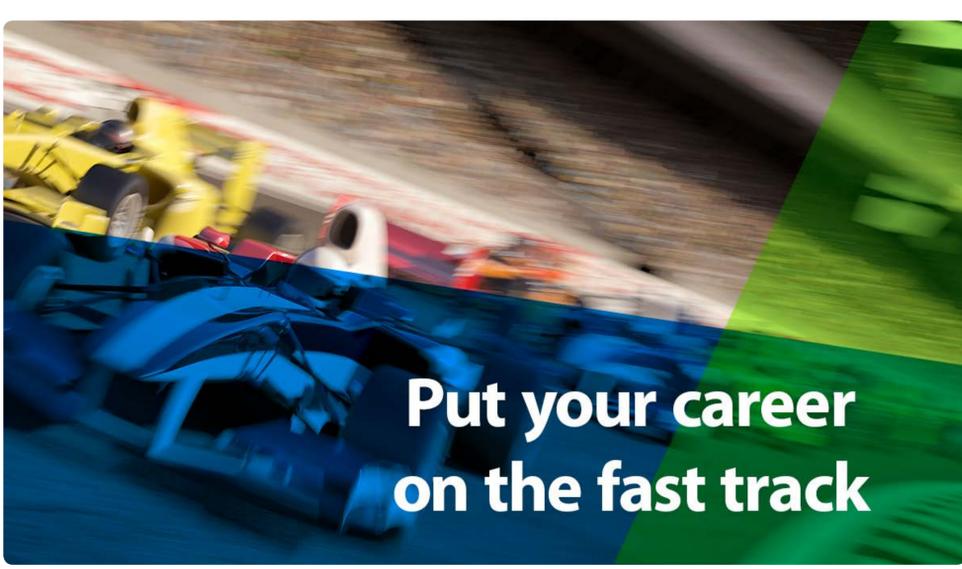

4. What do you enjoy most about teaching?

In my role as a regional sales manager, I am meeting and interacting with prominent insurance professionals across the industry on a daily basis. This exposes me to a wealth of examples and situations actively taking place in our industry. I try to use these real-life examples with the students to apply a practical emphasis to the material. It makes me happy when the "light goes on" with full comprehension of a topic and even more so when a healthy discussion or debate ensues.

5. What advice can you offer students looking to get the most out of their courses?

Try to learn and understand the material in the scope of real-world insurance and what is happening around you. Don't just strictly focus on a memorization of the material. Obtaining the designation itself is only one of the many benefits of the program. Look for practical and real world application to the material you are learning. Not only will you experience professional development, this is what will make you stand out from your peers.

Fall 2018

Plan your career journey today

Our New President

 HEATHER MASTERSON, BA, B.Ed, FCIP
TRAVELERS CANADA

Heather Masterson, President and CEO of Travelers Canada lives by a philosophy that was passed down from her father: make education a top priority, and it will empower you to do great things. It's a message she is passing on to her own two daughters and one that she actively endorses for more than 1,500 employees at Travelers Canada.

"We promote training, development and education as a way to drive excellence through our business and prepare our colleagues to take on bigger roles with more responsibilities," says Heather. "In a service and information-driven economy, if you're not investing in your people, you're not investing in the future of your business. We work hard to foster a culture of continuous learning and ensure our people have both the tools and the opportunities to grow and develop—from Claim University, to classroom training, to thousands of online training courses and countless mentoring opportunities."

For over 25 years, Heather has risen through the ranks of the Canadian insurance industry. From underwriter to director to vice president and now president and CEO at Travelers Canada, Heather has a track record of strong leadership that guides companies and teams to financial success. She attributes her accomplishments to her family and upbringing in St. John's, Newfoundland.

Growing up, Heather's mother stayed home to raise four children and manage a very busy household, while her father owned an insurance brokerage, later started an insurance company and today, at 81 years old, owns and runs a claims adjusting firm. "My mother's strategy was simple, but effective—keep everyone busy running from one activity to the next," explains Heather. "And my father, a man ahead of his time, fully supported my mother's choice to stay home while at the same time hiring strong, successful women in senior leadership roles to help him run his business."

Shaped by her father's commitment to gender equality, all those years ago, and surrounded by strong female role models, her mother and later her stepmother, Heather learned the importance of education, hard work and what it takes to be a leader. "It may sound like a paradox, but I learned that a great leader isn't someone who leads, it is someone who others are inspired to follow," says Heather. "It's about mentoring, guiding, coaching and leading from behind. In doing so, you give people the opportunity to develop, innovate and contribute to the success of your organization."

After receiving a B.A. in Arts and Science at Dalhousie, Heather went on to complete her B.Ed. at Memorial University, before moving to Toronto to begin her insurance career as an underwriter trainee. "It was a great introduction to the insurance industry—one that provided her with valuable work experience and an opportunity to further her education with the Insurance Institute, where she completed both her CIP and FCIP designations. "The CIP program gave me the foundation I needed to be successful in our industry and it remains the gold standard of insurance education in Canada," said Heather. "Investing in education and lifelong learning is an investment in yourself—whether you are just starting out in the industry or looking to build and advance your career."

Heather returned to Newfoundland to join her family business for a short period of time, before moving back to Toronto to join her fiancé, and now husband, to further her career and start a family. She navigated the many ups and downs of her career, tackling challenges head on and seizing new opportunities. "Every challenge is an opening for greater achievement," said Heather. "Great opportunities don't come by every day, so it's important to recognize and seize them, or to create your own by taking thoughtful risks and searching out opportunities that stretch and build your skills."

After successfully establishing a division at a larger commercial insurer and growing the business from zero to $50 million, she was offered the opportunity to take on a larger role with the company in the U.S. The role would have required extensive travel, taking her away from her two young daughters, then age 2 and 3. "This was one of the biggest opportunities and biggest decisions I had faced up to that point—to balance family, new opportunities and the timing of those opportunities," said Heather. "Given the young age of our girls, we decided the time I would spend away from them would be too precious to sacrifice. When I take on a new challenge I want to give it my 100 per cent. It would have been a great next move in my career, but the timing was wrong. I turned the position down and remained in Canada, recognizing immediately that it was the right decision."

As other possibilities presented themselves, Heather moved to the brokerage side of the business and subsequently took a position as president and CEO of a national MGA. Each move afforded unique experiences, developed her skills, shaped her leadership style and provided a new lens on the industry.

Opportunity came knocking again when she was offered the chance to head Travelers' Canadian operations. "This was an opportunity I was excited to embrace and a company I was honoured to join. The possibility to be a part of something great was obvious to me," Heather recalls saying. She joined Travelers Canada in 2015 as their COO as part of a succession plan to prepare for the retirement of their CEO. She spent 15 months learning the company, culture and business before taking over the reins of the company as president and CEO in 2016.

Heather has remained involved with the Institute throughout her career. First as a student, then a CIP instructor, a council member, and chair of the CIP committee. This year, Heather takes over as president of the Insurance Institute of Ontario and looks forward to assisting the Institute in promoting education and the value of professional development.

"I received some great advice from my former colleague and friend, Lynn Oldfield, about the need to get involved and volunteer. It doesn't matter where—pick an organization or association within the industry and commit to it," she recalls. "This was sound advice and I can't stress enough the importance of getting involved. It is such a natural extension of the work we do every day in our business—helping others. And the benefits of volunteering go beyond the organizations we support. Putting your knowledge and skills to good use at the Institute will not only build the next generation of insurance professionals, it contributes to your own personal growth and development."

"I'm looking forward to engaging with members, students and graduates of the Institute and listening to their ideas on furthering education and professional development across our industry," says Heather. "More than ever, the best way to prepare for your career journey is with a strong foundation of education and a commitment to lifelong learning. One thing no one can ever take away from you is your education—and the knowledge and confidence you gain from it."

On behalf of our members, we warmly welcome Heather and wish her much success in the coming year!

Learn in-demand risk management skills

Fall 2018 Registration Deadline: August 31

The demand for risk managers in the p&c insurance industry is constantly growing due to current trends such as big data, the sharing economy, and digital technologies. Whether you are an underwriter, broker, agent, or claims professional, the three-course Risk Management Certificate has been designed to strengthen your risk management expertise.

The Risk Management certificate program provides an opportunity for insurance professionals to deepen their understanding of risk in the context of insurance. Successful completion of each course also qualifies you to attempt the corresponding exams leading to the Canadian Risk Management (CRM) designation, offered by the Global Risk Management Institute (GRMI). Candidates apply directly to GRMI to write each CRM exam, and you can do so as soon as you have registered for your Insurance Institute course.

The Insurance Institute will provide proof of successful course completion, as required by GRMI.

The first course in the series, Risk Management Principles and Practices (R110), provides an introduction to risk and risk management. This course defines four types of risk, compares enterprise-wide versus traditional risk management processes and highlights financial risk.

Risk Assessment and Treatment (R120) delves into the identification and resolution of risk. Students will learn analysis techniques used to identify risk and outline alternatives to manage risks, including the transfer of risk to insurance and financial organizations.

The final course in the program, Risk Financing (R130), introduces monetizing uncertainty. This course focuses on financing options that are used to pay for critical resources when needed.

If you haven't already completed your CIP, you will be able to apply for credit for two elective courses in the CIP program upon successful completion of the Insurance Institute's Risk Management Certificate program.

The Institute's Risk Management courses are delivered through facilitated online learning. There is no weekly live class, but all students follow the same weekly schedule for readings, assignments, and graded online interaction under the guidance of an instructor.

Register now for the Risk Management Certificate and take the steps to build your risk and insurance credentials. Visit www.insuranceinstitute.ca/riskmanagement.

Profile of a TIC Scholarship Winner:

Mia Perrin

MIA PERRIN

"Mia, this is PERFECT for you. You HAVE to apply!"

That was the email message that Mia Perrin received from her colleague Lisa Beaton, Claims Manager at Cambrian Insurance, just a few weeks before the deadline last September. Mia immediately doubted her eligibility for this TIC Scholarship opportunity, but Lisa quickly gained referrals from the company's managing director and president. She then convinced Mia that dedication and passion like hers are what perfect candidates are made of.

Lisa was right. Mia submitted her application and won one of three $5,000 TIC scholarships awarded in October 2017. The timing couldn't have been better. At the time, she was about to reduce her work schedule at Cambrian Insurance in order to focus on her second year in the francophone Business Administration program at Laurentian University in Sudbury.

How does this relate to a career in the insurance industry? Because Mia's family is well-rooted in the industry, you could say that it's in her blood. Her grandfather was an insurance agent for many years and later a licensed insurance broker. Beyond this, her father owned and operated his own company, Marc Perrin Insurance Ltd., and later became a managing partner at Cambrian Insurance.

It is therefore no surprise that Mia started working for the company by the time she was 15. Since then, she has held many different positions in both personal and commercial lines, including file clerk, receptionist, technical services, IT assistant and web designer. Today, continuing the legacy, Mia combines her work as webmaster with underwriting for Cambrian Special Risks Insurance Services.

With so much family influence combined with on-the-job experience and education, Mia has picked up a thing or two about what it means to be an insurance broker. "I am learning every day that an insurance broker is a lot more than just a risk mitigator," she says. "Insurance brokers are often first responders in times of crisis; they are trusted advisors whose main focus is to ensure that clients are well-protected and well-served when they need it most."

Now finished her second year of university, Mia enrolled in several classes over the summer to fast-track her studies. Her plan is to continue with full-time studies in the Business Administration program in the fall — and continue to expand her insurance knowledge base at Cambrian Special Risks by underwriting a growing variety of risks.

Mia would like other students to know that this career path has so much to offer. "It is evolving quickly," she says, "moving towards a much more technologically-involved setting, making it quite interesting and appealing for the upcoming generation."

This scholarship is not only "a huge stress reliever," as Mia puts it. It allowed her to dedicate more time toward homework and studies rather than working. It made a tremendous difference with respect to finances, grade-point average — and confidence moving forward.

Do you know someone eligible for this scholarship?

The TIC scholarships application deadline is Friday, September 28, and is one of several scholarship programs offered by the Insurance Institute. Also closing the same date is the John E. Lowes Insurance Education Fund, which offers financial assistance for Ontario residents pursuing post-secondary education in the study of p&c insurance.

Advanced CIP—the next step on your education path

To succeed in business today you need the four C's: critical thinking, creative thinking, communication and collaboration. The Advanced CIP focuses on developing these skills within a business context while providing technical tools to creatively address insurance specific problems.

The Advanced CIP will help you to gain greater problem solving and adaptable thinking skills, making you better equipped to make contributions to decision-making in all areas of insurance.

The Advanced CIP includes weekly online discussion groups that will expose you to points of view from peers all across the country. This four-course certificate program is entirely online and each week you can complete the eight to 10 hours of participation and study when it fits your schedule.

The Advanced CIP also acts as a bridge to the FCIP Program for students without a university degree.

Students who have completed Critical Thinking for Insurance Professionals (A300) have provided overwhelmingly positive feedback and commented that they have gained helpful new skills to improve their effectiveness on projects. In fact, 90 per cent of those students surveyed said they would recommend this course to their colleagues.

Visit our website www.insuranceinstitute.ca/AdvancedCIP for more information on courses in the Advanced CIP Program.

Registration is now open for the fall semester which begins September 10, 2018.

Hot off the Press

New GIE and Licensing Study Materials Available August 1, 2018

We're excited to announce that this August, we are releasing an enhanced edition of the General Insurance Essentials \(GIE\) study materials—which form the study kit for insurance licensing here in Ontario.

Working closely with industry experts, we've updated the content to reflect the most current insurance standards and practices, presented in a way that incorporates the latest in adult learning.

These new materials will be available for purchase starting August 1, 2018.

For many years, the GIE for Ontario Brokers—RIBO level 1 and Agents—Other Than Life study kits. Those exams will also be updated to reflect the latest materials.

All kits purchased before and after August 1, 2018 will include an insert that clearly identifies new kits from the old ones. If you've already purchased a kit, or are planning to purchase one before July 31, 2018, you will have the option to write the old exams until October 31. After that time, we will only provide the new exams.

For questions or to purchase a copy of the new kits, please contact your local chapter or a member services associate.

Apply now for FCIP, start your course in January

If you have a university degree and a CIP, why not challenge your strategic thinking skills and business knowledge with the Institute's Fellow Chartered Insurance Professional (FCIP) designation program? The six-course, online program offers a comprehensive business education with a unique p&c focus.

The FCIP covers everything from strategy, finance, leadership, risk management and emerging issues—all of the aspects you could expect to come across in your career. In the final "capstone" course, FCIP candidates apply everything they learn in the program to research and implement a solution to a particular problem or issue facing a p&c organization.

Many FCIPs say the program helped them gain a broader picture of not only the p&c industry, but of their own companies as well.

Register by August 13 to enrol in a fall 2018 course. More information about taking the FCIP is available online at www.insuranceinstitute.ca/ffcip.
